The latest event in our Speaker Series focused on the Right Strategy for the New Normal: Effective Supply Chain and Risk Management. Caoimhe Clarkin, Horace Lam and Mark Rasdale (DLA Piper) were joined by leading economist, Professor Stephen Kinsella, for a discussion on the impact of a transformed economic and business environment on international supply and demand. Stephen considered why, in this era of disintegration and demand disruption, your position in the supply chain is everything and how Ireland's economy is different. Horace identified some key themes we are seeing in supply chain management globally. Caoimhe and Mark analysed some common supply chain 'pinch points' and shared some insights on how best to strategically manage them.

Speakers:

Stephen Kinsella is an Associate Professor of Economics at the University of Limerick, Ireland and Chief Economics Writer for The Currency.news. Stephen has also written for the Guardian, the New York Times, and the Irish Independent. He has twice won Economic Commentator of the Year for his columns.

Caoimhe Clarkin heads up DLA Piper's Litigation and Regulatory practice in Ireland. She advises international and Irish clients on constitutional and administrative law, director and auditor liability and product liability. She is experienced in cases spanning a range of financial services litigation including investment funds and insurance litigation. She also advises on corporate criminal/regulatory investigations.

Mark Rasdale advises clients across various sectors on strategic sourcing and commercial contracts, technology and IP matters and data protection compliance. He has particular experience in technology procurement, outsourcing and transformation projects, including strategic legal due diligence and transitional services arrangements in relation to corporate acquisitions, disposals and restructurings.

Horace Lam is the Co-Country Managing Partner in China, and Co-head of the Intellectual Property and Technology (IPT) group in Asia. He leads a strong team of dedicated IP lawyers with full Greater China coverage across Beijing, Shanghai and Hong Kong, and throughout Asia.
