

Digital health: Connecting patients and services in a COVID-19 world

13 July 2020

As the COVID-19 pandemic strains healthcare resources worldwide and threatens the health and safety of our frontline healthcare workers, telehealth technologies have emerged as a powerful tool to connect patients with vital services while reducing in-person interactions that can spread the virus. DLA Piper's Kristi Kung, Danny Tobey and Ray Williams discuss.

Listen to the Beyond the Curve podcast on iTunes, Stitcher, and Spotify.