Ricardo Escobar advises local and international clients in financing transactions and projects as well as other corporate finance matters.

Ricardo has represented lenders, funds and sponsors in several infrastructure projects. His experience covers sectors such as energy, financial services, agribusiness, mining, gas, infrastructure, telecoms and education. He also represents international and local companies in the implementation of their businesses and projects in Peru.

In recent years, Ricardo has advised the concessionaire of the biggest infrastructure project in Peru, a gas pipeline to be built in the southern party of the country. Additionally, he has constantly advised several key development finance institutions with leading presence in the LatAm region and participated in several merger and acquisition transactions in the oil, energy, mining and retail industries.
