As 2019 is now in full swing, we thought we would take a few minutes to check whether you were studious enough in following our global employment legal updates this last year.

So, for a few minutes of entertainment and edification, we offer our annual global employment law quiz so that you may see how you are faring.

Of course, if you'd like to do a bit of last-minute cramming before taking the quiz, take a look at our 2018 Global Employment Law Highlights. We also hope you will want to study for next year's quiz by signing up for one of our upcoming Employment Law Briefings.

For even more information and global employment updates, you can also check out our Be Global series, our Guide to Going Global and our employment law blog (The Labor Dish). Those who are already among our clients may request access to GENIE, our employment law resource.

Finally, if you love being tested and missed previous years' quizzes, you can find them here and here.
