What will a Boris Johnson Premiership mean for Business in the MENA Region?

25 July 2019

The duration and implications of a Johnson premiership are difficult to predict. Beyond Brexit, one of the early foreign policy tests facing Prime Minister Johnson will be his response to the fast moving developments in the Gulf, as this will indicate the broader posture he intends to take vis-à-vis relations with the Middle East and North Africa.

Engaging with UK Parliamentary Select Committees

21 June 2019

Giving evidence to a Parliamentary Select Committee can be a daunting experience. Select Committee hearings are high-profile events which can attract significant media attention. Evidence sessions expose witnesses to cross-examination by MPs or Peers, which at times can be hostile.

Local Election Results And Why They Matter

3 MAY 2019

On Thursday 2 May local elections were held across the United Kingdom. 248 local councils and six directly-elected mayoral positions were contested in England, as well as 11 local authorities in Northern Ireland.

Engaging with the UK's post-Brexit trade negotiations

26 APR 2019

As the UK Government continues to consider the UK's post-Brexit bilateral trade and investment relationships, it has been clear of its need to fully understand business and civil society's offensive and defensive interests. An increased focus on stakeholder engagement is now crucial to developing informed and representative negotiating positions with third countries.

Unpacking INSTEX - the new mechanism to facilitate trade with Iran
