Bruce Mee has vast experience in complex contentious matters. His practice encompasses all facets of dispute resolution, in both judicial and extra-judicial proceedings, including arbitration, mediation and other alternative dispute resolution procedures.

He frequently advises and assists clients in relation to commercial disputes involving breach of contract, torts, products liability, franchise and insurance matters. Bruce regularly represents clients across a broad range of industries, including banking and finance, energy and the insurance and reinsurance sectors, among others. He has developed special expertise in large risks and complex litigation and arbitration, including court-mandated expert appraisal proceedings and industrial risks litigation and investigations.

Bruce has extensive experience representing clients before civil and commercial courts throughout France and its overseas territories and possessions, as well as in arbitration proceedings in French and English.

Bruce's clients, quoted in the Paris edition of Legal 500, have described him as "very pragmatic", "tactically ingenious" and as having "a profound knowledge of the French legal system". He is listed in Who's Who Legal France.
