Oliver Newman focuses his practice on the representation of issuers and underwriters in a broad range of domestic capital markets transactions.

These transactions include initial public offerings, follow-on offerings, registered direct offerings (RDOs), equity lines of credit (ELOCs) and at-the-market (ATM) offerings, in addition to a range of private investments in public entities (PIPEs). Oliver also has experience with mergers and acquisitions and venture financing transactions. He regularly advises clients regarding SEC reporting and disclosure requirements and corporate governance matters.
