A comprehensive study of BC's VR/AR ecosystem: successes and challenges for the road ahead

5 MAY 2020

As technological innovations catch up with the human imagination, the video game industry has become increasingly lucrative, earning a record $120.1 billion in 2019 alone. This industry's success has driven the development and emergence of innovative new hardware that has empowered the Virtual Reality/Augmented Reality industry. With the foundation laid by British Columbia's robust video game and film economy, the province's VR/AR industry has seen exponential growth over the last decade.
