

Webinar: Impact of coronavirus COVID-19 on the sports sector

18 March 2020
3:00 PM - 4:00 PM GMT

In a busy year for international sport, sports stakeholders around the world are facing up to the unprecedented challenge of coronavirus COVID-19. To date, events have already been cancelled or postponed in a wide range of sports, including football, basketball, cycling, athletics, rugby union, and Formula 1.

All stakeholders need to understand the legal implications of the coronavirus COVID-19 outbreak for the sports sector, what they can do to protect their position, and how the situation may evolve.

Discussion topics

In this free webinar, our international cross-practice panel will discuss the impact of coronavirus COVID-19 on the global sports sector. Harnessing the panel's insurance, litigation and intellectual property and technology experience, our one-hour webinar will cover:

- the current situation regarding coronavirus COVID-19 and its commercial and legal implications for the sports world;
- the legal tools available to contracting parties to deal with the impact of coronavirus COVID-19; and
- the practical steps stakeholders should take to protect their position.

Click here to download the event materials

Click here to access the webinar recording

SPEAKERS

- Nick Fitzpatrick
- Guido Kleve
- Chris Morris
- Leon Taylor