This year our keynote speaker, from Deloitte, Stuart Scotis, Partner, Technology, Media and Telecommunications (TMT), will present on Deloitte's TMT predictions for 2016. These predictions reveal the perspectives gained from hundreds of conversations with industry leaders, and tens of thousands of consumer interviews across the globe. The predictions identify critical inflection points that inform industry strategic thinking, and explain these will manifest over the next 12-18 months for companies in TMT, and other industries.

TechLAW will be of interest to legal counsel, business managers and c-suite executives working in the technology sector or involved in the procurement and management of technology products and services.

We hope you can join us for an update on the current opportunities, challenges and risks resulting from the rapid changes that are being driven by technology.
