Claudia Barbarano is responsible for establishing, managing and delivering the relationship with our key community partners and acts as account manager for UNICEF and other international organizations.

Prior to that, she worked as engagement coordinator on the implementation of the firm's community programs such as break into law in continental Europe and on the development of the Italian Pro Bono practice. Claudia established the first local pro bono clinic on statelessness and has showed a particular interest in access to justice work, children and migrant rights issues.

Education

- She studied Law at the University of Naples and earned a degree in Criminology and Forensic Psychopathology with the Italian Society of Psychology and Psychiatry, specializing in children victimization and child sex abuse.
