Tudor is a partner in the firm's Litigation, Arbitration and Investigations group. He has a diverse advocacy practice, successfully representing clients on a range of commercial litigation matters including breach of contract cases and shareholder disputes. He also represents clients in both domestic and international arbitrations.

Tudor regularly provides advice on the conduct of internal investigations and has represented numerous clients on matters related to fraud and asset recovery, including in the financial, communication, health, real estate and transportation sectors.

Tudor represents clients responding to investigations by regulatory agencies, including the Ontario Securities Commission and the Competition Bureau, as well as defending clients charged with regulatory and quasi-criminal offences. He also provides advice on matters related to corruption, money laundering and economic sanctions.

Tudor was a guest lecturer at Osgoode Hall Law School in 2011, 2012 and 2013 on the topic of shareholder remedies.

Canadian securities regulators test the use of artificial intelligence

10 August 2021

On July 15, 2021, the Ontario Securities Commission, British Columbia Securities Commission, Autorité des Marchés Financiers, and Alberta Securities Commission jointly announced that they had selected the Canadian-based technology firm, Bedrock AI Inc. (Bedrock), to support their Cross-Border Testing (CBT) initiative. As part of the CBT initiative, the Canadian securities regulators are working with Bedrock to assess how AI technology can be used to review and process corporate disclosure requirements, identify corporate risks, and enhance the supervisory and enforcement role of regulators.

Supreme Court sets aside sealing orders in Sherman Estate

22 June 2021

In Sherman Estate v Donovan, the Supreme Court of Canada unanimously lifted sealing orders that had been placed over the estate files of Barry and Honey Sherman (the “Shermans”), reiterating the importance of the open court principle and clarifying that it is engaged by all Court proceedings, regardless of whether the matter is adversarial or administrative in nature.
