

Future Insurer Series

The insurance sector is facing a rapidly evolving landscape.

The traditional business model of insurance firms is having to put up with almost constant disruption from both external and internal forces, putting insurers under increasing pressure to innovate and adapt. But what are the challenges and issues that legal departments will encounter as their roles are reshaped?

The Future Insurer Series is a collection of short video interviews with a number of our key clients and industry contacts looking at the role of the insurance sector in a transforming world. DLA Piper partners and key industry contacts will focus on the topical issues, future trends and explore the legal challenges that are on the horizon.

ISSUES

Episode 2 - How can insurers contribute to a more sustainable economy?

30 September 2021
Future Insurer Series

In this latest episode of our Future Insurer Series we speak to Butch Bacani (Programme Leader, UN Environment Programme's Principles for Sustainable Insurance Initiative) about the Net-Zero Insurance Alliance, the integration of sustainability and ESG on both sides of an insurer's balance sheet and what the industry can do to support the transition to a sustainable future in a way that no one is left behind.

Episode 1 - Embedding ESG principles into the insurance industry

21 July 2021
Future Insurer Series

Episode 1 of our Future Insurer Series features DLA Piper's Heike Schmitz (Counsel, International Insurance ESG Lead) and Fabienne Crisovan (Head of ESG Legal and Corporate Law) at Zurich Insurance Group discussing the role of the legal function in embedding ESG in the insurance industry.
