

Growing your Canadian business

With lawyers across Canada and globally, DLA Piper is strategically positioned to serve and support emerging growth companies wherever they do business. In today's challenging environment, we provide a range of strategic legal and non-legal services to emerging companies that are designed to assist businesses at every stage of their life cycle. We work with many of the world's leading startups and emerging companies, offering strategic advice on corporate transactions, IP protection, commercial contracts, company structuring and formation, regulatory compliance, advocacy and litigation, and employment matters.

DLA Piper Canada's service strategy is focused on providing advance knowledge and understanding of all legal aspects of a client's business. Early growth stage companies look to us for a broad spectrum of advice at each stage of their growth and trust us to provide high level legal advice in an efficient manner to get desired results.

This series of articles provides practical tips and strategies which will assist our clients better understand their growing business. To receive the latest updates subscribe to our Corporate Commercial Law list here.

