

Litigation, Arbitration and Investigations

DLA Piper's lawyers are skilled in litigation, arbitration, investigations and ADR and will deploy that experience to help you devise the best strategies.

We have the local knowledge to apply the regulatory, economic, political and cultural context to legal issues and develop case strategies. We regularly handle technically challenging and complex multi-jurisdictional matters. Our global reach allows us to provide you with fully integrated teams and consistent quality wherever you do business. We work with you to manage potential risk and implement the most effective solutions to reduce costly escalation. We aim to solve complex business disputes as swiftly and effectively as possible and provide solutions which are aligned with your business objectives.

DLA Piper's global team of disputes and regulatory lawyers is the largest dedicated disputes practice globally as recognized by The Lawyer's Top 50 Litigation survey.

In an environment where regulation and its enforcement will only increase, we recognize that effective compliance and avoidance of regulatory intervention are business critical issues.

Globalization of world markets has brought limitless commercial opportunities. However, it has also increased the potential for legal liability by exposing corporations around the world to financial and reputational risk across multiple jurisdictions. Mitigation of those risks requires early engagement with experienced lawyers who understand the cultural as well as the legal and regulatory landscapes but who will also drive relentlessly to deliver results for their clients when a dispute or regulatory intervention is unavoidable.

Caught between a rock and a hard place: Dealing with blocking statutes when conducting investigations in Asia

23 MAY 2022

Dealing with “blocking statutes” has become the harsh reality for multinational corporates when conducting cross-border investigations. These statutes may apply to a corporate by virtue of their “home” jurisdiction (ie where they are incorporated or have their principal place of business), where the investigation takes place, or even where pieces of evidence may be located.

Defining 'cyber crisis': The new Thai guidelines on cyberthreat levels

23 MAY 2022

Following our last article on the rights and obligations of Organizations of Critical Information Infrastructure (OCII), at the end of 2021, the Thai government issued guidelines intended to assist these organizations in classifying cyber threats they face. In this piece, we examine what these guidelines mean for OCII, and how OCII may appropriately consider these guidelines when conducting cybersecurity reviews or when responding to regulators.

SEACHange Issue IV: May 2022

23 MAY 2022

SEACHANGE

Our latest covers various developments in the disputes and cybersecurity space, touching on Australia, Singapore and Thailand.

We also examine how corporates can tackle the challenges posed by “blocking statutes” to the conduct of internal and regulatory investigations in Asian markets. This has become a hot issue given the trend of regulators and governments enforcing and enacting legislation to limit the sharing of evidence out of their respective jurisdictions.

Watch where you seat: Singapore High Court clarifies that Law of Seat governs subject matter arbitrability at the pre-award stage

23 MAY 2022

Subject matter arbitrability refers to the power of an arbitrator to hear certain categories of disputes as a matter of public policy. Naturally, national laws vary in the extent to which they limit arbitrable subject matter. Generally, disputes or claims relating to commercial or contractual matters are arbitrable, whereas criminal, family, bankruptcy, and insolvency matters are not.

No Win, No Fee: Singapore Embraces Conditional Fee Arrangements*

22 February 2022

Boosting its popularity as a global arbitration seat, Singapore has passed a law that allows conditional fee arrangements (CFA) in international and domestic arbitration proceedings, certain proceedings of the Singapore International Commercial Court and related court and mediation proceedings. A CFA is an agreement between the client and legal counsel which provides for the whole or part of the lawyer's fees and costs in dispute resolution proceedings to be payable only in specified circumstances, such as where the client succeeds in the claim, or where certain agreed outcomes are achieved. The introduction of the CFA framework aligns Singapore with other jurisdictions, such as England & Wales, Australia, and Canada, each of which have allowed CFAs in various forms for some time.

Raising the Bar on Blowing the Whistle: China's New Whistleblower Rewards Measures Provide Additional Incentives (and Controls) for Whistleblowing

22 February 2022

China's new Whistleblower Rewards Measures provides up to RMB1 million (approx. USD157,000) in rewards for the reporting of major violations of China's various market conduct regulations. The regulations aim to provide greater incentives to whistleblowers and deter illegal activities in the market more effectively, particularly in light of the increased importance of whistleblowing across different industries in China in recent years. In light of these new measures, companies with operations in China should implement or strengthen their internal controls and reporting mechanisms.

Pleading with care: the limits of a tribunal’s jurisdiction

31 August 2021

A recent Singapore High Court decision in CIZ v CJA is a useful reminder that the primary instruments for demarcating matters in dispute in an arbitration are the parties' own written submissions. Tribunals must decide cases that parties put before them, not cases that parties could (or should) have made.

Insights from the US: will knowledge, recklessness or negligence in Australian securities class actions actually change anything?

16 August 2021

Last week the Federal Government introduced permanent reforms to the continuous disclosure regime and misleading and deceptive conduct provisions in the Corporations Act 2001 and ASIC Act 2001 which provide that companies and their officers will not be exposed to civil liability unless they had a requisite mental element, being knowledge, recklessness or negligence. This change is in line with the recommendations of the Parliamentary Joint Committee for Corporations and Financial Services and also extends the temporary measures originally introduced at the height of the COVID-19 pandemic.

This change brings Australia's continuous disclosure regime closer to that of its counterparts in the United States and the United Kingdom, and there is much we can learn from our international colleagues.

Africa Connected: COVID-19 and the evolution of dispute resolution

4 November 2020

AFRICA CONNECTED

ISSUE 5

COVID-19 and the evolution of dispute resolution in Africa is the theme of this edition of Africa Connected. We have articles on issues ranging from third party funding and its implications in African disputes, to the use of virtual hearing platforms across the continent. Jurisdiction-specific articles cover how the pandemic has affected legal practitioners - and the court system - in Burundi, Kenya, Nigeria and Tanzania.

Africa rising: Virtual hearings in international arbitration

4 November 2020

AFRICA CONNECTED

Before the COVID-19 pandemic, the legal community was dabbling in the use of virtual hearings in certain parts of the world. However, the imposition of national lockdowns, strict social distancing measures and travel restrictions has forced lawyers to move away from the comfort of traditional, in-person hearings, towards new-age virtual hearings held on electronic platforms.
