As Asia Pacific Pro Bono Director, Catriona Martin manages DLA Piper's pro bono programme across 13 office locations in eight countries in Australia, Asia and New Zealand.

- Corporate

Catriona works closely with UN agencies, governments, international NGOs, non-profit organisations and charities, and community legal centres to develop pro bono programs that address unmet legal need and improve access to justice in communities. Catriona also partners with governments and universities to support the rule of law and build legal capacity within the Asia Pacific region, in particular, in Pacific Island Nations. Catriona is a trusted adviser to the non-profit sector with a particular focus on child rights.

Catriona has extensive experience in public interest litigation, legal education, law reform and implementation of community programs. At DLA Piper, Catriona's key pro bono clients include UNICEF, the Government of Vanuatu and the University of South Pacific.

Catriona has previously acted as a criminal defence advocate for homeless and disadvantaged young people and has been actively involved in juvenile justice law reform, including having sat on the Youth Justice Coalition Committee. Catriona has also worked for an Indigenous organisation in Central Australia, NPY Women's Council, on stakeholder engagement frameworks and tools for evaluating the success of domestic and family violence programs.
