

Real Estate

With approximately 200 real estate lawyers in the US and over 500 globally, DLA Piper's market-leading real estate group offers a full range of real estate services, including single asset and portfolio acquisitions and dispositions, single asset and multi-property/programmatic joint ventures, fund formation, operating company investments, cross-border investments, REITs, financing, construction and design, leasing, zoning/land-use, environmental law, real estate litigation and tax.

Our clients benefit from our significant experience in orchestrating complex, long-term projects that involve drafting documentation, facilitating negotiations, navigating legal and regulatory issues and, when necessary, litigating on their behalf.

Our global team of real estate lawyers assists clients throughout the entire life cycle of their investments, wherever in the world business takes them.

Real estate has emerged as an attractive long-term investment for investors seeking diversification and stable yields within an uncertain economy. In addition, many traditional real estate companies and multinational corporations now have needs that transcend borders resulting in the emergence of a global real estate industry.

Central Bank of Ireland Consultation Paper on Irish Regulated Property Funds

29 April 2022

On 25 November 2021, the Central Bank of Ireland (Central Bank) issued consultation paper 145 (Consultation Paper) to industry in relation to a proposal to introduce macroprudential limits on leverage and provide regulatory guidance to reduce the potential for liquidity mis-matches in AIFMD compliant property funds that are Irish-authorized and investing over 50% directly or indirectly in Irish property.

Data Centers

29 April 2022

REAL ESTATE GAZETTE

The last 30 years have been driven by the arrival of new technologies such as the internet and smartphones. The COVID-19 pandemic, which has profoundly changed our professional and personal habits, has also amplified and accelerated the use of technology. Shopping has moved online, business meetings have become virtual meetings and streaming services have replaced going to the cinema. Today, the average number of emails sent per hour across the world is expected to reach 12 billion, and we could reach 48 billion connected objects in circulation by 2025.

Data Centers and ESG – two irreconcilable growth stories?

29 April 2022

As a new year starts and we reflect on 2021, it feels like two topics made headlines around the world more than any other: COVID-19 and COP26.

COVID-19, an increased frequency and severity of floods, wildfires and drought, and COP26 brought the importance of sustainability into sharp focus. How companies address climate change and other ESG risks is now viewed by investors, employees, customers and regulators as critical to businesses and long-term sustainability and value creation.

Data Centers in Australia: A Growth Market Segment for Post-COVID Recovery

29 April 2022

Fueled by the emergence of remote working, online schooling and virtual entertainment during the COVID-19 pandemic, and compounded by the growing impact of Big Data and the Internet of Things, Australian data center providers are experiencing significant increases in demand for their storage and processing capabilities.

Data Centers: The new logistics 3.0

29 April 2022

The COVID-19 pandemic has strongly affected real estate investors' views of the different types of real estate assets. The various restrictive measures taken by many governments over the past two years have disrupted our daily lives and have notably affected certain asset classes such as hotels and retail. While these properties were previously highly coveted by investors, these same investors are now more attracted to logistics centers or data centers that meet new needs.

Data center Real Estate in Nigeria – Build or lease?

29 April 2022

The Nigerian data center market is one of the fastest-growing markets in Africa. Increasing investments in the industry are largely driven by increased demand for data services, digitization, improved infrastructure, and rising e-governance. The COVID-19 pandemic has also affected the growth of the data center industry.

Data centers in Norway - updated national strategy provides new business opportunities

29 April 2022

With its cold climate, easily accessible renewable energy, competitive prices on electricity, a modern digital infrastructure and active support from the government, Norway - ranked as the world's most resilient country - is increasingly seen as a favorable location for international data center projects.

Data centers – A Case for New Zealand

29 April 2022

As data centers continue to dominate the global technology agenda, New Zealand is riding the wave of this boom. Globally recognised as a rare pandemic success story, New Zealand provides the ideal economic and political environment for data center providers to establish these power houses while keeping green.

EC's proposals for reform of AIFMD and the ELTIF regime – how will the changes affect real estate managers?

29 April 2022

Following its review of the scope and functioning of the Alternative Investment Funds Manager Directive (AIFMD), the European Commission (the EC or the Commission) has concluded that the AIFMD's standards for ensuring high levels of investor protection are mostly effective, but that amendments are required which are intended to be targeted in scope but may have far-reaching effects for real estate fund managers.

Growing data center market in the Netherlands: What are some tax considerations?

29 April 2022

With the help of data centers, many individuals have been able to work from home since the start of the COVID-19 pandemic. The market for data centers in the Netherlands is experiencing rapid growth. The Dutch Data Center Association expects an increase in 211,000 m² of data floor in the coming years. In light of this fast development, clarity on the tax treatment and aspects of data centers and colocation services is becoming more relevant.

Revitalizing Kista – a unique collaboration in urban development in Sweden

29 April 2022

With a vision to reverse the downward trend in Kista, a suburb in the north of Stockholm, five of Sweden's most prominent property owners and developers have united in an urban development project, the likes of which has not previously been seen in Sweden. The companies Corem, Vasakronan, Kungsleden (Castellum), Revelop and Atrium Ljungberg will jointly invest more than SEK20 billion in the upcoming years, with the goal to turn Kista into an attractive area for investors, businesses and residents. DLA Piper has acted as overall legal advisor to the project manager in charge of this unique collaboration.

The rise of data centers in Northern Virginia

29 April 2022

Data centers are physical structures that house computing equipment for the purpose of storing and permitting access to massive amounts of data that is used to power the innumerable information services that we depend on every day, such as streaming movies, sending emails and browsing social media.

US data center leases in Germany – does one size fit all?

29 April 2022

Data centers are everyone's darling – urgently needed by the industry and increasingly popular as an asset class for investors. Developers' and operators' existing or planned projects are selling like fresh German pretzels. The big (US) players in this sector have no difficulty in leasing white space in data centers or even entire centers. On the user side we find the usual suspects – in particular US cloud service providers – dominating the market.

COP26 and the future of real estate

12 October 2021

REAL ESTATE GAZETTE

With COP26 just around the corner, there will be few businesses not sharpening their focus on sustainability strategy. While most have already implemented measures to help reduce their carbon footprint, the increasing gravity of the climate crisis, and growing list of countries setting bold commitments to reach carbon neutrality by 2050, appear certain to accelerate the need for change. The real estate industry has no small part to play in this, with the built-environment being responsible for almost 40% of greenhouse gas emissions globally.

The exhaustion doctrine under the California Environmental Quality Act

12 October 2021

REAL ESTATE GAZETTE

Over the last 15 years, the long-established common law mandate to “exhaust administrative remedies” before filing a lawsuit challenging a public agency decision has been eroded under California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) jurisprudence. This development is largely the result of a conflation of the exhaustion requirement with the separate jurisdictional prerequisite of “standing” by courts interpreting CEQA.

Hotel Management Agreements

13 July 2021

One cannot discuss the evolution of hotel management agreements (HMAs) without first talking about the separation of hotel ownership and hotel operations; a transformation of the major chains' business models, more commonly known as an “asset light” strategy. Today the form taken by hotel operators in HMAs is an important factor in the effective working of the market in hotel investment. DLA Piper's Hospitality and Leisure Sector Group has negotiated HMAs for a myriad of different clients across the H&L landscape (owners, investors, operators (both branded and white label) and lenders) in all of the world's key jurisdictions.

In Germany

One of DLA Piper's greatest strengths in the area of real estate law is the seamless coordination of national or global transactions, as well as providing our clients with worldwide advice from a single source. Like the real estate industry itself, our practice is present locally and internationally. We combine excellent knowledge of regional markets with an international perspective.

We offer legal advice in the real estate sector with a full-service approach – all our advice relevant to the industry comes from a single source. This includes asset management, transactions, financing and restructuring. Furthermore, we have extensive know-how in real estate management, tenancy and construction law, in the legal support of real estate transactions and in infrastructure projects as well as in real estate financing. We advise on tax-efficient and complex investment structures, always with the aim of implementing clients' projects quickly and with legal certainty.

Our clients include leading national and international companies, real estate investors, project developers and banks.

Our key areas of advice:

- Acquisitions and disposal of property or portfolios, if necessary with preparatory due diligence and the establishment of data rooms
- National and international real estate transactions
- All aspects of commercial landlord and tenancy law, including the corresponding litigation
- Ongoing advice on all day-to-day issues of real estate management, location development, rental concepts, etc. for large administrative properties or real estate managers
- Advice to open and closed real estate funds in all legal matters
- Advice on classic project developments, utilization and exploitation concepts
- Special real estate (e.g. industrial parks, leisure facilities, hotels)
- Structuring of real estate assets
- Advice on all questions of building law in coordination with specialist consultants
- Real estate leasing, sale and lease back, real estate financing and project financing in Germany and abroad
- Advice on corporate, tax and public law issues relating to real estate
