

The DLA Piper Infrastructure Podcast

The DLA Piper Infrastructure podcast explores how infrastructure, transport and construction are adjusting to the changes brought about globally by the COVID-19 pandemic. Our leading lawyers will examine the biggest challenges ahead and how businesses must evolve to meet them, both in the short and in the longer term.

The impact on digital infrastructure, transport in a world of social distancing, aviation's long road to recovery, boosting construction and sustainable mobility are just some of the topics that will be discussed.
