John Wilks has extensive experience in a range of domestic and international intellectual property issues, advertising and marketing law, breach of confidence and data protection work.

- Intellectual Property and Technology

While he has acted for a broad range of clients, John's practice has a particular focus on the media, sport and entertainment and consumer goods, food and retail sectors. He has acted for national broadcasters and newspaper publishers, major sports leagues, and a number of well-known consumer brands.

John's advertising work includes campaign clearance, litigation, regulator complaints work, international prize promotions, and direct marketing campaigns.

He has also advised widely on domain name issues, including re the gTLD programme, and what this important development means for brand owners. He has also advised clients on acquisition of version 4 IP addresses.

- Representing the Premier League on its market-leading anti-piracy programme, including managing a large number of copyright infringement proceedings, taking action against the streaming piracy ecosystem, advising on copyright policy developments, and co-ordinating international copyright enforcement in various territories.
- Representing one of the world's largest motor manufacturers on a series of trade mark acquisitions and on global trade mark registration programmes.
- Advising a UK copyright collecting society on all aspects of its copyright strategy, including on licensing, enforcement, and Copyright Tribunal regulation.
- Acting for Football Dataco Limited and others in relation to various proceedings relating to copyright and database rights in football fixtures and data (High Court, Court of Appeal, CJEU).
- Acting for a global motor manufacturer in successful UK High Court proceedings, and in the Court of Appeal, making new law on parallel import trade mark infringement.
- Advising a major international theme park and tourist attractions brand on numerous image rights, advertising compliance and prize promotions matters.

- Representing numerous clients before the UK’s advertising regulator the ASA and in negotiations with Clearcast, including on comparative claims (as complainant and respondent), online targeting of age-restricted ads, sustainability/ ESG claims, HFSS food claims, and hi-tech product performance claims.
- Preparing influencer agreements for various major international brands.
- Advising a major global food brand on engaging with the UK government on its proposed changes to the law on advertising HFSS foods.
- Advising a major clothing brand on a range of issues relating to electronic marketing, and handling of personal data in a marketing context.

High fat, sugar or salt food and drink regulation changes

25 May 2021

In the UK plans to ban the advertising of High Fat, Salt and Sugar (HFSS) products will now go ahead. It is expected to hit food manufacturers hard and they need to be prepared for the changes. In this guide we explore what businesses can do to respond and prepare, as well as what stage each proposal has reached.

Impact of Brexit on the media, sport and entertainment industries

21 January 2021

On 1 January 2021, the Brexit transition period came to an end and the UK is now no longer subject to the rules of the EU. In this article, we take a look at the key issues of Brexit on the media, sport and entertainment industries and what the EU-UK Trade and Cooperation Agreement (TCA) means in respect of these sectors.

Boardroom Brexit: What the deal means for intellectual property

31 December 2020

Boardroom Brexit

The TCA is not radical in terms of its immediate impact on holders of IP rights in the UK or the EU. It does not, for example, affect the post-2020 status of EU trade marks in the UK.
