Jordan Ziegler advises clients on all manners of complex business issues.

Jordan has particular experience navigating business torts, class action litigation, government investigations, and white collar litigation. He focuses his practice on representing clients in the real estate, technology, healthcare, insurance and financial services industries. He defends and investigates allegations by federal and state regulators and criminal authorities of corporate misconduct, inadequate disclosures, securities sales and marketing violations, breach of fiduciary duty and fraud-related claims. Jordan is also engaged to lead teams of attorneys through complex discovery issues, argue dispositive motions in federal and state court, and represent businesses in internal compliance matters.

Prior to joining DLA Piper, Jordan worked for an Am Law 200 firm focusing on complex civil and criminal litigation, class action litigation, and white collar criminal matters. Jordan was previously a judicial intern for Senior Judge Paul C. Huck and for Judge Robert N. Scola, Jr., in the Southern District of Florida.

Recent engagements include the defense of complex civil litigation arising in the context of real estate development, defense of complex FINRA arbitration, criminal defense of a $1.3 billion securities fraud allegation, and criminal and civil defense of largest healthcare fraud in U.S. history.

Jordan received his B.A. from Tufts University (2010) in Spanish and Economics, with a concentration in Biomedical Engineering, and his J.D. from the University of Florida Levin College of Law (2015), where he served as the Trial Advocacy teaching assistant. He is admitted to practice in the State of Florida, the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida, and the United States District Court for the Middle District of Florida. Jordan speaks English and Spanish.
